Henry County was form as a division of northwest Ohio by a legislative act on April 1, 1820 from Indian Territory. This division, however, did not contain enough inhabitants to run it independently and it therefore was placed under the administrative authority of Wood County. In 1823 this division became a township and later a county. Henry County was placed on February 2, 1824 under the judicial authorities of Putnam, Paulding and Williams Counties owing to the fact that there were still not enough residents to properly administer the county. This setup lasted until 1834 when Henry County became completely independent.

The 1860 census was the eighth census conducted by the United States. It was, however, the fourth census for Henry County. The categories of information asked to be recorded is as follows: name, age as of the census day, sex, color, birthplace, occupation, value of real estate, value of personal estate, whether married within the previous year, whether deaf, dumb, blind, or insane, whether a pauper, whether able to read or speak English, and whether the person attended school within the previous year. The official date of enumeration was June 1, 1860.

Henry County at this time contained all of its present townships which included the following: Ridgeville, Freedom, Liberty, Washington, Napoleon, Flatrock, Pleasant, Harrison, Marion, Damascus, Richfield, Monroe and Bartlow. Unlike the 1850 census the 1860 census had a break down of the villages in the county which included Florida, Texas, Colton and Napoleon. The total count of this census was 8,901 which was an increase of 5,467 residents. The enumerator for Henry County was Sheriff Charles R. McWilliams (1827-1869) of Napoleon, George W. McCann (1826-1860) also a resident of Napoleon, J. Hatheoman, G. W. Hannes, and S. H. Stenahan. George McCann died during the enumeration and his portion of the census was completed by S. H. Stenahan.

As with all old documents the reading the handwriting was a difficult task to undertake. All of the information was recorded as exactly as was in the original census records. All the names, occupations and places of birth were tried with the greatest ability to be read correctly but sometimes that was an impossible task. Letters may have been confused with one another so there are most likely errors. Please try to excuse these errors as they were not done on purpose so do not always look for an exact spelling. Sometimes it might even be better to look for a correct group of first names as they were much easier to read. I hope you find this as a useful tool in your research.
